> Problem with Parents DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 17 years, in love with a boy of the same age, My parents don't want me to go with him, because of something his parents did, but he can't help that. I see him quite often away from home, but I'd rather my parents would allow me to bring him to the house, so they could become acquainted with him.

He gave me a wrist watch for my birthday, but I have never taken it home; I keep it in my locker at school. I'd like my parents to know I have it, but how shall I go about it?

I'm not the type of girl who likes to do a lot of running around, but am so anxious that my parents meet this boy and allow me to have him at the house. He's the most sensible boy I've ever met. Works in the daytime and goes to school at night, preparing for his profes-

Please tell me how I can put all this up to my parents.

When parents will not allow their daughters to see their boy friends at home, I always beg them to stop, look and listen! So many of the tragedies which come to me from what is known as girls "in trouble" have had their origin in meeting on the sly

Half the fascination of this type of love affair may be put down to "stolen sweets," and the other half to standing up for a boy or girl of something.

It would be so much better i this girl felt sufficient confidence in her parents to tell them about the watch, even though they might tell her that such a gift from a school boy was not quite the thins and beg her to return it. But to surround this young man with a halo of opposition is to give him the best chance in the world of winning the girl's affection.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

will never marry him.

I am a girl of 19 years. I have always worked at housework, and have kept myself since I was 14. I have a hopechest, a little money saved, and also bought a bedroom suite. I don't like to spend money on foolish things.

I am going with a boy who is my first boy friend. He is 31 years old, has a good job, but gives all his money home, He doesn't have a cent saved. He seems to care for me, but says I'll have to wait a few years on him, because he has to help out his family. But I know his family doesn't need his help and ought to let him save some rest of his life, we will briefly explain who they were. Paul, you may remember, was a tent-makand Priscilla, and they met in the city of Corinth, where Paul tarried for 18 months. They, in turn, discovered Apollos, a zealous Christian who, however, knew only the baptism of John the Baptist. Aquila and Priscilla instruct proved an eloquent and able teacher.

Apollos was not the only earnest Christian who had been bap-tized only by John the Baptist. At Ephesus, one of the greatest cities of the ancient world, Paul met with a group of disciples, follow ers of the teachings of John. "Had they received the Holy Ghost?' Paul asked them, and was answered that they had not; in fact, they had not heard of the Spirit them, baptized them in His name, they received the Holy Ghost and the gift of "tongues and proph-
